

Before KDI was created in 2012, our team spent entire careers in professions such as emergency medicine, public safety, corporate protection and the military. We came together for one reason, because we are specialists in protecting the lives of others.

We all have something in common; we believe in community. Now, under the banner of KDI Protective Services of South Carolina, we provide a unique service. We are a state licensed private security and private investigations agency that directly supports our community.

*"Sometime within the next 12 months, you or someone you know will be in need of our services. When that time comes, we're here for you." - Karl L. de la Guerra, PPS, CLSS
